Spring Fling/Orlando's 40th Anniversary

by Pat Henderson

Spring Fling was combined with the celebration of 40 years of dancing by the Orlando group at the Whirl & Twirl Square Dance Hall in Orlando. David Digby, the founder of the Orlando group, and his wife, Dorothy Archer, visited from Atlanta for the occasion. It is truly amazing that there were six original members in attendance: David Digby, Morris and Sheila Rasy, Teresa Borker, Larry Wartell and Chris Feninger.

The festivities started at 11:30 am with a pot luck lunch, complete with an anniversary cake. I had selected 40 dances (see 40th Anniversary Program) to represent the 40 years of the club, starting with dances from the first tape that we played every week back in the 70s. It progressed through a few performance dances during the big performing years and, more recently, our camp favorite of each year.

After several hours of dancing, we took a break and recognized several members' birthdays with another cake. Those celebrating birthdays that week were: Ann Robinson (a big one), Joe Birkemeier, Jan Lathi, and Sheila Rasy. By the end of the day, around 7 pm, almost 60 people had come and danced 98 dances. The date for the next Spring Fling will be March 31, 2011. Put it on your calendar now!

Orlando/Orange County Celebration of World Dance Day 2011

by Teresa Borker

With the Mayors of Orlando and Orange County executing Proclamations declaring Saturday, April 30th the official World Dance Day - 2011 in Orlando/Orange County, and the sponsorship once again of Festival Bay Mall, from 1 to 6 PM, the indoor center court stage area was alive with over 130 performers from 13 different dance groups. Orlando area club, school, academy, community and professional performers presented 30 different forms of the art of dance.

International dancing was well represented at the event with performances exhibiting the art of Irish step dancing; Mid-Eastern folkloric, belly dance and tribal gypsy; Latin; American clogging and hip-hop; classical Spanish and flamenco; as well as traditional ethnic dances of India, Mexico, China, Africa, the Caribbean and France.

This year's event was dedicated to the memory of Kip Watson, who passed away on April 10th after a courageous battle with cancer. He was a well known classical ballet and Broadway dancer from Orlando who returned to the area and became a leader in the arts as director of the Florida Film Festival; Executive Director of the Osceola Center for the Arts; and in dance as a teacher, coach, mentor, choreographer, director, and one of the original founders of Southern Ballet Theater, now known as Orlando Ballet. His passing was a great loss to the Central Florida arts and, especially, dance community.

Dancing and Eating our Way through the Windy City

by Jack Seltzer

“Chicago, Chicago,my kind of town...,” for Linda and me, the last two weeks in March. It was time to see the sights and sounds of this fine city. We landed at noon, got the rental car and were off to a recommended bialy store, New York Bagels & Bialys, in Skokie. It was a Wednesday, so that night we could dance with Dit Olshan (one of my first folkdance mentors) at the Skokie Recreation Center on Dempster Rd.

Would you believe the second sound we heard was of a Hungarian jumping dance we had learned from the Magyars at Stockton in '83 – Dunantuli Ugros? They weren't doing the dance, just playing the music. But I got right into it for about five minutes of the dance. It goes for about 15 minutes. We ended up teaching them some other dances of ours the following Wednesday.

But, the next morning we were off to Svea, a Swedish breakfast place in the Andersonville section of the city for the best “Viking” breakfast I could get (Swedish pancakes, limpia bread with lingonberry jam and Swedish sausage and eggs, topped off with coffee and the ambience of a small village atmosphere).

Off to meet Dit at the Lincoln Park Zoo, where she volunteers once a week. You should have seen her tap the glass in front of the howler monkey display, inducing one of them to come down to say hello to her. Then she rubbed the glass in front of his tummy and he stretched and smiled contently behind it.

After running around in our rented Nissan, to the southside for a visit with our old teacher friends, to Jefferson, Wisconsin where Linda's aunt and cousins lived, we settled into our good friend Jo's place for a few days of running to Dengeos on the north side for a huge incredible gyro and Manny's deli on the south side for delicious corned beef.

Top: Jack and Linda Seltzer and Dit Olshan at the Lincoln Park Zoo (Yes, those are flamingos behind them); Serbian performers; Mid: Spring Festival at the International House of the University of Chicago; Lower: Jack and Linda at Ida Noyes Hall; Polish performers

All that led us to great parties and workshops at annual Spring Festival at the International House of the University of Chicago. That Balkan music and dance festival covered the last weekend of March, was led by one of my first Balkan folkdance mentors, John Kuo, and included the old reliable Atanas Kolarovski. To be able to dance with that distinguished Macedonian performer and teacher was an event. He was the same as I remember him from the 70's and 80's – soft spoken and quick. In his mid 80's now, he still can relate to us amateurs in his unique way.

It was our first time dancing with and learning from Ahmet Luleci, giving us some Turkish; Ventzi Sotirov, some Bulgarian; and a local newcomer, Konstantin Marinov adding some different Bulgarian. Friday and Saturday night parties consisted of local bands and singers providing great sounds and sights for hours. Saturday night brought performances by singers and dancers from about ten local Serbian, Polish, Bulgarian and Hungarian groups.

Linda and I finished up our visit in the Hyde Park neighborhood walking over to the steps leading out of the Ida Noyes Hall, where I met her in '79, and the Oriental Museum with all the mummy displays, where we had our first date. We've been through some fun times since that fated period in our lives.

We finished the two weeks with another visit to New York Bagels & Bialys on the way to airport, for two dozen bialys. They sure smelled good on the plane and all the way back to Gainesville!

Tampa Trivia

by Terry Abrahams

Andi's gone – boo hoo! There was a party for her in Sarasota. Bill, Ursula and I attended. They also did their world dances on the same evening and it was great fun. (See Sarasota Grapeviners.) Sarasota does a great job! I usually go to Orlando for their World Dance Day celebration, but the price of gas is keeping me from going too many places.

Ernesto's next surgery after camp made him much better and he's dancing again on Friday nights, as well as a little contra. We're thrilled, and very happy for Judith as well.

Maria Pasetti showed up once – it was good to see her again, but the possible newbies have disappeared. Tampa seems doomed to stay small. But we're dancing! Well, I got a Nook for Mother's Day and I need to register it – so th.. th ..that's all folks!

Prez Sez

Is it possible I have very little to say? Couldn't be! But Caroline says it's time to write again! I spent much time before Passover doing Passover things: I had 23 people in my home, including some folk dancers, along with my family, which took a lot of cleaning and cooking.

The next night was our "Show" – which you must have heard of by now. It's a special Seder a group and I write. This was our sixth. It has turned into a full-blown musical comedy, but the Passover order of events stay intact – one just has to watch for them. I write the majority of the songs; the group meets weekly for a considerable time for plot lines (always about Moses, interestingly enough!) and funny lines, and this year we did the Wizard of Schnozz. (We change themes every year.) It took some tricky doings, and I spent an inordinate amount of time with costumes, props and choreography, as well as being the scribe for the meetings. So now that it's over (and it went great – 170 people in attendance), I feel as if I have nothing to do. We had to find a new venue for next year (sound familiar?) and I took care of that.

Having time to think, I realized it's time to pick camp teachers for 2012. I think I've got the first run wrapped up, but am waiting to surprise you in a later issue. I made a list of every teacher we've had, seen in materials from other camps, from people who (including you) have made suggestions, some new to us, some not, and am trying to do what will be best for all of us. I appreciate your trust in me as I make what I consider the most important decision of my year.

Here's a thought. I just found out that there is a yoga "class" that meets every Sunday in our big downtown park. It's free, open to anyone, and in a perfect venue. I went yesterday for the first time. It turns out it's been going on for almost a year and I didn't know about it. I had such a good time, I'll be going again. Which makes me think – I'm wondering if folk dancers could do something similar. I know there is outdoor dancing in Israel and also in Vancouver. Have any of the rest of you ever tried it? Maybe we could just do it once under the auspices of the FFDC to see what happens. Maybe in the fall, instead of the summer, when it's too hot. Well, it's a thought. Would anyone care to give it a shot? G'ville, I'll bet it would work on your campus. Hmmm.

Well, this is more like me – going on and on. Dance your heart out this summer!

–Terry

Dancing at the Harn Museum

by Jack Seltzer

Gainesville dancers Jack and Linda Seltzer, John Ward, Jualene Lewis, Joyce Dewsberry, June Littler, Julieta Brambila, and Gary and Sharon Dockter performed at the Samuel P. Harn Museum of Art at the University of Florida on May 12 for the museum's celebration of International Museum Day. Audience participation dances drew in a number of the spectators and about three new dancers showed up at Gainesville's regular club dance the next evening as a direct result of the performance.

From the Editor

It appears activities are starting to slow down for the summer. The spring ethnic festivals are over, most snowbirds have left, and the rest of us are planning our summer travels and activities. The Flagler Beach club will host its annual Flagler Fling on June 25 (see Events). It's a day of dancing and eating at the beautiful clubhouse in the condo where Betty Nehemias lives. Also, see the Sarasota Grapeviners' article for their summer plans.

As you can see, I decided to change the look of the Florida FolkDancer a wee bit, by moving Prez Sez off the front page. I've been itching to put more pictures on the front. (You may have noticed – I like lots of pictures, when I can get them.) Never fear, our Prez will be back on the front page at crucial times, like when she has important information about camp!

In April, Gary and I were visited by some folkdance friends from California: Robert and Elizabeth Null, Hadi Babazadeh and Barbara Bevan. The visit came about because last summer Gary and I offered a six-day stay at our "bed and breakfast" for the auction to benefit the Stockton Folk Dance Camp scholarship fund. We advertised it for two people, but when the high bidder, Robert, wanted to bring four people, we made it work, with an airbed temporarily set up in our dance room.

It was an eventful six days. We picked them up at the Port of Tampa, when they came off a Caribbean cruise. They didn't want to waste any time, so we immediately headed across the state to the monthly Sunday set dance session with John Daly and crew in Melbourne Village. There we learned that Robert and Elizabeth already knew Fannie, Willa and Bernice; they were all on the Jim Gold trip to Greece in 2006. (See "Views of Greece" in the November 2006 Florida Folk Dancer, available on the website, www.folkdance.org. I printed out that issue for Robert and Elizabeth and they enjoyed reading our Florida dancers' account of the trip.)

The Melbourne dancers were doing English Country dances that day and we all joined in. Unfortunately, in one dance that required dancers backing up past each other, Barbara and I ran into each other. She tripped, fell over backwards and broke her wrist. (A word to dance leaders: if you lead dances that involve people backing up past each other, please make sure your dancers are spaced widely enough to do so safely.) That pretty much ended the dance session, as Gary drove Barbara and Hadi to the nearest hospital emergency room, with Fannie to show the way.

Some of us waited for word from Gary and did a few slow circle dances to pass the time. Eventually, Barbara's wrist was put in a splint and she was released from the hospital with pain pills and instructions to go to her doctor in California and get a cast on her arm as soon as she returned home. We finally brought our guests to our house late that night.

Barbara is a dance leader herself and a real trooper. She was not about to let a little thing like a broken wrist keep her from dancing or anything else. They did touristy things, like Disney World and our local Bok Tower Gardens. They did Florida things, like seeing lots of sandhill cranes and eating breakfast on our porch overlooking Lake Reedy. And they all accompanied us to dance with the Orlando group on Wednesday. There we found that Pat and Bobby and Ann Robinson also knew Robert and Elizabeth from the 2006 Greek trip. (See also OIFDC article.) Other Floridians not mentioned yet who were on that trip were Kelly Fagan, Claudia and Joe Terrence, and Jan Lathi.

When we had some spare time, we pushed aside the airbed in our dance room and the six of us danced together there. They introduced us to some of their favorite dances and reviewed some dances that we had seen in California. There were no more mishaps during their stay and we hope to see them again in California this summer.

On March 5, many of our members traveled to Daytona Beach to see the Duquesne University Tamburitians, who were as wonderful as usual. After the show, we had dinner at a nearby restaurant.

At the end of March, Juanita Schockey enjoyed a belated birthday Caribbean cruise with her three daughters. One lives in Orlando and the other two came from West Virginia and Alaska.

On April 2, we hosted the annual Spring Fling and celebrated its 40th Anniversary. (See Spring Fling/OIFDC 40th Anniversary).

Jan Lathi celebrated her birthday by visiting her daughter and grandchildren in California. In April, Gary and Caroline Lanker brought folk dancers from California who were staying with them for a week. It turned out that two of them were on our Greek trip in 2006. (See From the Editor.)

On April 10, Orlando held its second annual Turkish Festival. Bobby and I and Mary Jean Linn and her husband, Bill Byars, met for lunch and then watched the Turkish dance show. Another Orlando dancer, Nicki Wise, caught up with our group later in the afternoon. The dance troupe, Blue Star from North Carolina, also performed last year. They were entertaining, but when we stayed for their second set, they repeated the same dances. We were a bit disappointed; last year, three dance groups performed, instead of just one, and Blue Star did different dances in the different sets we saw.

On April 20 and 27, we celebrated World Dance Day at our regular Wednesday dances by doing a dance from each country we could. This year we started at the end of the alphabet: starting with Wales and ending with Albania. It was fun to try to remember dances from countries that we don't do very often.

In between those two weeks, Bobby and I visited some friends in northwestern South Carolina where we hiked trails to waterfalls for a few days. On April 27, Claudia Terrence spent her last night in Florida before moving to Illinois by dancing with our group. We will miss her and hope to see her at FFDC camp.

In the past few weeks, Bobby has been busy building a new bathroom on the first floor of our house, so that dancers would not have to climb up the stairs to the second floor to use the bathroom. On May 4, the new bathroom was ready for use. [The dancers there that night gave it a big thumbs up! – Ed.]

Sarasota Grapeviners

by Judy Merkt

Hello from Sarasota, everyone. Regrettably, in the last three to four weeks, we have seen most of our snowbird members off to their various northern or western homes, so our summer crew is smaller of course, but no less enthusiastic. On April 27th, we celebrated World Dance Day with an all-request dance party. As in the past two years, we had a very full playlist that made for an evening of wonderful non-stop dancing.

It was also Andi's last evening dancing in Sarasota before traveling to Vancouver for the summer. I asked Andi for an okay to tell you this – she is going to be a grandma for the first time. Yes, her daughter and son-in-law are expecting, due in August. Congrats to Andi and family.

On the health front, Marie Millett has been released from rehab and she continues to heal comfortably at her apartment. We were delighted to see her doing a great job "chair dancing" at our World Dance Day celebration.

Earlier in April, several of us (Susan Barach, Chris Vincent, Ron and Kathy Fico, and I) attended Spring Fling and had a grand time. And with Andi, Terry, Bill, and Ursula travelling from Tampa as well, we were able to give the Orlando dancers a nice west coast representation in celebration of their 40th anniversary. 'Twas a great party indeed! Thanks Orlando, for all your hard work. We appreciate you.

We are well into May now, and it's easy to tell that the "season" is over in southwest Florida – fewer cars

(no improvement in driving skills however), more seats available at the theaters, the arrival of the infamous love bugs – ooh, it's a bad year for those babies – and as I mentioned earlier, fewer Grapeviners dancing it up each week at the Bayfront.

However, we do dance all summer here in Sarasota. Please join us if you find yourself in our area. We have several folks who can put you up overnight, so you don't have to make a long drive home after dancing all night.

I turned on what little charm I have to recruit summer teachers and had good success. In addition to teachers from our own crew (Delores Lustig, Varda Ruskin, Linda Nicoli, and myself); Caroline Lanker and Bobby Quibodeaux agreed to help out – Caroline for a 3-Wednesday stint in May/June and Bobby for a 2-Wednesday stint in August. It will be a fun summer for sure.

Please consider joining us for our 2nd Annual "Summer Stomp" on Wednesday night, July 6th. It will be an all-request dance party from 7 until 9:30 and it will be an absolute blast, we guarantee it!

P.S. we have a website now. It is still a work in progress, but please take a look at www.internationalfolkdancesarasota.com

Flagler Fling Planned

by Jan Lathi

The third annual Flagler Summer Fling, sponsored by the Ocean Marina Social Committee and the Flagler Beach International Dance Group, will take place June 25-26, 2011. On June 25th, we will meet at the Ocean Marina condo recreation center at 11 am, with pot luck contributions for lunch/dinner, and dance until the early evening. All our out-of-town guests are invited to sleep over at local dancers' homes. On Sunday morning, we'll walk the beach at Flagler Beach and/or swim in the ocean and go back to Jan's home for a swim in the pool. Finally, we'll eat lunch at an ethnic restaurant or Maggie's European Café on the ocean, as we did last year.

We hope many of you will come and we'd appreciate an email (amarjan1@bellsouth.net) if you are coming. Let us know if you would like a place to stay or want a recommendation of a motel/hotel.

The recreation center is located in Ocean Marina near the flag pole on Ocean Marina Drive, which is at the border of Flagler Beach and Beverly Beach on highway A1A. Please note that parking is available only in unnumbered spots. If you need directions, just ask me. We look forward to seeing you all.
